How do i get a license?

Trial licenses and extension of existing trials are requested on <https://my.atlassian.com>. Licenses are bought from Atlassian Marketplace or through your preferred Atlassian Expert.

Can we extend our trial beyond 30 days?

Sure, here are direct links to where you can generate new licenses.

Which license tier do I need when purchasing an add-on?

See Atlassian's licensing FAQ: <https://www.atlassian.com/licensing/marketplace#licensingandpricing-1>

"Purchase the license tier that matches the number of users you have licensed for your host application. For example, if you have a 25-user Confluence license, purchase the Confluence add-on at the 25-user tier.

The add-on will only function if its license matches or exceeds the tier of the host application – even if only some of your licensed users need to use the add-on."

For JIRA, the license has to match the highest application tier. If you have a 500-user JIRA Software license, and a 250-user Core license, then the license needs to be at the 500 level.

JIRA ServiceDesk customers can log in with our add on for free since they are not counted against the user tier.

Examples:

25 JIRA service desk agents and 10000 service desk customers = Kerberos 25 user license

50 JIRA service desk agents, 10000 service desk customers, 500 JIRA Software Users = Kerberos 500 user license

What happens when the trial expires?

Without a license our plugin will not log in users. Users are presented with the standard logon page. The Kerberos test page will still function, and will report whether a user can successfully log in or not.
